The Naval Postgraduate School (NPS) is accepting applications for a Government Contract Law instructor in the Graduate School of Business and Public Policy. NPS provides graduate education to military officers of the uniformed services, Department of Defense civilians, and members of the international defense community. GSBPP provides an MBA with a specialization in contract management and a Master of Science in Contract Management.

Candidates must be qualified to join the faculty as active teachers and researchers. Successful candidates will demonstrate excellent written and verbal communication skills. We are particularly interested in scholars with strong teaching skills and applied interest in defense contract management research.

Candidates must be able to teach graduate level government contract law courses. Preference will be given to candidates who have the credentials to teach other contract management courses.

Faculty members have access to the computing and library resources of a major research university. NPS follows a quarter system and the normal teaching workload for tenure track faculty is four courses a year (with an expectation of research and publications), while lecture faculty teach eight courses a year. The Graduate School of Business and Public Policy at the Naval Postgraduate School is accredited by both NASPAA and AACSB. For more information about GSBPP and NPS visit www.nps.edu.

Minimum qualifications:

- Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree required. LL.M. in government procurement law is desirable.
- For tenure track candidates, research commensurate with the length of the professional experience.
- Evidence of aptitude to teach graduate students.
- Must be able to complete and successfully pass a security background investigation.
- While US Citizenship is not a requirement, it is considered in the hiring process.

Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience. Applications must include up-to-date curriculum vitae and evidence of teaching experience. Three letters of reference will be required of candidates who are selected for the interview phase of this recruitment action.

Applications will be accepted starting 27 January 2016. The position will remain open until filled.

Applications should be sent to:
