The Defense Resources Management Institute (DRMI) at the Naval Postgraduate School (NPS) is accepting applications for a non-tenure track faculty position in a defense resources management and analytical decision making education program, at a rank of Lecturer or Senior Lecturer. Applicants with degrees and relevant experience in Financial Management, Budgeting, Resources Management or a related field including Operations Research and Decision Analysis are encouraged to apply. Prior experience working in or with Department of Defense (DoD) is preferred, and prior DoD experience in research and/or instruction is strongly preferred.

DRMI conducts professional education programs in defense resources management and analytical decision making for military officers of all services, senior civilian officials of the United States, and participants from over 160 other countries.

DRMI faculty are active teachers and scholars. The successful candidate will be able to demonstrate teaching experience and excellent written and verbal communication skills. A strong candidate will have excellent methodological background in financial management, budgeting, resources management, operations research or decision analysis, and DoD experience in financial management, budgeting, comptroller, resources management, or any aspect of decision analysis within defense. Candidates will be expected to make professional and intellectual contributions to DRMI programs including improvements in learning and pedagogy, practice, and academic discipline.

Candidates must be able to teach in an integrated, team-teaching environment in resources management short courses, and must be willing to travel internationally (generally no more than five weeks per year) and domestically. The candidate is expected to be available to teach year-round and be based in Monterey. Full time telework is not available; however, telework is available on a situational basis. The target starting date for the candidate ideally is June/July 2016. The search committee will begin reviewing applications 20 March 2016. Salary is commensurate with qualifications and experience.

DRMI is part of the NPS Graduate School of Business and Public Policy. For more information about DRMI and NPS visit http://www.nps.edu/drmi/
Minimum qualifications:

- A graduate degree (MA, MS, MBA, MPA, MPP), in a relevant discipline, including but not limited to financial management operations research, decision analysis, or a related field
- Evidence of teaching ability to an executive or professional level audience
- Eligible for a Secret clearance
- U.S. citizen

Applications should include a letter of application, curriculum vitae or résumé, evidence of teaching and/or relevant instructional experience, the candidate’s personal statement of teaching philosophy, and three letters of recommendation. Applicants should highlight professional certifications such as CPA, CDFM, CDFM-A, PMBOK, etc. Applications should be sent to:

Director, DRMI
busapp@nps.edu

The Naval Postgraduate School is an equal opportunity employer. For additional information about NPS, please refer to the website at http://www.nps.edu