Networking, Relationship-Building, and Collaboration as Underpinnings of Resilience

Thursday, July 19       |       Glasgow Hall East 203       |       1200 - 1300

Resilience is a dynamic state of being of a community. It encompasses a broad set of aspects that include resources, the economy, education system, innovative thinking, planning, preparedness, and much more.

Three items are key to getting to resilient individuals, organizations, and communities:

- networking
- relationship-building
- collaboration

Kutner will discuss these critical building blocks necessary for our nation’s resilience.