Nearly every year since 1996, the Naval Postgraduate School (NPS) Center for Joint Services Electronic Warfare (CJSEW) has sponsored the international, 3-week, technical workshop, Technologies for Information Operations (TIO).

As a leader in simulation and modeling, the CJSEW has developed the TIO course based on recent research and development in associated Information Operations technologies. Presented by various NPS faculty, the course covers several exciting technology areas important for tomorrow’s war fighters. Examples of these areas include:

- Decision Making Theory
- Advanced Networking Concepts
- Tactical Theory from Fleet Tactics and Coastal Combat
- Operational Testing and Experimentation of Weapon Systems
- Target Recognition and System Identification with Cognitive Radar
- Electronic Attack against a Network-Enabled Distributed Sensor Architecture

The course includes a variety of on-campus laboratory tours, exercises, and demos and an off-campus site visit to the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory (LLNL) featuring a brief on the strategic research currently coming out of LLNL and multiple tours of its cutting edge science and technology facilities.
