

NAVAL POSTGRADUATE
SCHOOL

NAVAL POSTGRADUATE SCHOOL HAWAII SATELLITE CAMPUS
IN CONJUNCTION WITH THE NATIONAL SECURITY AFFAIRS
DEPARTMENT PRESENTS:

Deterrence, Strategic Planning, and Emerging Technology

August 13–16 • Makalapa NPS Hawaii Classroom

IN-PERSON ONLY OPPORTUNITY

Professors James Wirtz and LTC Luke Calvert offer a course focused on two key themes in modern strategy. "Deterrence in the Western Pacific" covers deterrence strategy from WWII to the present, while "Strategic Planning and Emerging Technology" examines the impact of new technologies on military strategy.

Dr. James J. Wirtz has served as a professor, department chairman, and dean at NPS, and is a distinguished scholar with numerous books and articles on national security and intelligence.

LTC Luke Calvert, an active-duty Army officer, and Assistant Professor, is a former U.S. Army Aviator, having served as an Army Strategist, Division Chief, and Strategic Advisor.

This course is designed for armed forces members, government employees, and DoD contractors. DoD civilians and contractors may enroll if space permits, with priority given to active-duty and CPCPF service members.

This graduate-level course is free for active-duty Navy and Marine Corps officers. Commands are encouraged to reserve seats early due to a maximum of 25 and a minimum of 10 participants.

Dr. James J. Wirtz
Professor and Author
National Security Affairs
Department

LTC Luke Calvert
Assistant Professor
National Security Affairs
Department

Command small groups are welcomed and encouraged.
For more information and to sign up, please visit:

<https://online.nps.edu/group/online/-/operations-analysis-in-naval-operational-planning>